Wedding Planning Experience

Our wedding planning team is here to guide you with care, expertise, and a genuine commitment to bringing your vision to life. To help you feel supported throughout the process, your planning journey typically includes three key planning meetings, outlined in your Trademark Planning Guide. While this serves as the standard framework, timing and meeting structure may shift slightly depending on your unique planning needs.

FIRST PLANNING MEETING

Once you're ready to begin, we'll arrange a phone or video call—or an in-person meeting when appropriate—so we can talk through the important early details such as your timeline, vendor expectations, and overall vision. This conversation is a wonderful opportunity for us to connect, listen, and begin shaping your celebration together.

DESIGN & DECOR MEETING

Around the midpoint of your planning process, typically four to six months before your wedding day, we'll invite you to meet with us at our Design Center or virtually. During this meeting, we'll walk through your ideas, inspirations, and preferences, helping you create a cohesive design that feels authentically “you.” The timing of this meeting may vary slightly depending on your pace and availability.

FINAL PLANNING MEETING

Usually about three weeks before your wedding, we'll meet once more to review the major details and make sure we're aligned on the key elements of your celebration. Our goal is to support you in feeling prepared and confident heading into your big day. Depending on your event's needs, additional check-ins or planning touchpoints may be required to ensure everything is well-coordinated.

REHEARSAL

Your Trademark planning team will guide your rehearsal, typically held the day before your wedding, to help everyone feel comfortable and ready for a meaningful celebration.
